NAME: Safia Farole
AWARD: American Fellowship
INSTITUTION: Portland State University
DISCIPLINE: Political Science
DEGREE/SPECIALIZATION: Postdoctoral,
Comparative politics, African politics
SPONSOR: Oregon State Division (1963)

Safia Farole is an assistant professor at Portland State University in the Mark O. Hatfield School of Government, Department of Political Science, Department of International and Global Studies. She was born in Somalia and was raised in Seattle, WA, one of seven girls.

In her research, Farole focuses on local elections, party systems and political representation of women in Africa. Her recent research on how opposition political parties build support at the local level has been published in peer-reviewed journals in political science. Her new work on women's representation in local elections in South Africa examines why female politicians are less likely to win seats in direct local elections even in the context of gender quotas.
